get to know us

For nearly 25 years, Roe Deer has been bringing joy and warmth to people's feet. We're proud to have been a part of happy customer memories and modern design architecture along the way. Let's explore some of the critical milestones in our history.

Roe Deer was founded in 2004, where we are still based today. The company is named after the surnames of the founders; Roe Deer founders started as a small business by working in the casting business. As more and more families took to the road to explore the world.

We want you to use our pieces for years, even decades. That's why we source the finest materials and factories for our timeless products— like our Grade-A cast iron stoves, modern barbeques, and fireplaces.

25 years after our founding, Roe Deer remains a proudly independent, fourth-generation family-run business. On any given day, you can still find three generations of the Roe Deer family working hard — including the Roe Deer founders still actively involved! We continue to be grateful for and humbled by the loyalty of our customers, old and new. Looking ahead, we are committed to preserving our products' high standards and hand craftsmanship. Our overarching goal today is to keep the goodness going, so we can create more joy for generations to come.
